Hogue Inc. Unveils New Hybrid Forend Grips for M-LOK® Rail Systems

Introducing versatile and durable tactical handguard grips.

Henderson, NV – Hogue Inc. proudly announces the launch of its latest innovation—M-LOK OverMolded Hybrid Forend Grips for AR-15 and M16 style rifles.

While most generic foregrips limit the user to only a few support hand positions, Hogue's hybrid design combines the 45 degree and vertical foregrip into one superior grip. This offers the full range of support hand positions to accommodate the user's optimal shooting preference, whether standing, kneeling, prone or sitting. These options include the traditional under-handguard grip, vertical grip, over-exaggerated thumb over, locked elbow, and C-Clamp grip—all combined into a single forend product.

Hogue's OverMolded grips are expertly crafted from durable thermoplastic elastomer, which is virtually impervious to firearm related oils and solvents, and ensures the ability to withstand the harshest conditions. In addition, Hogue's renowned Cobblestone™ pattern delivers a non-slip, non-irritating, and stippled texture, enhancing weapon control and user comfort. Each grip package also includes captive Allen mounting screws for secure attachment.

Be part of the revolution in firearm accessories and experience the Hogue advantage. Hogue tactical products are manufactured in the USA in family-owned and operated facilities.
