Hogue Hunting Announces New Precision Tool Releases

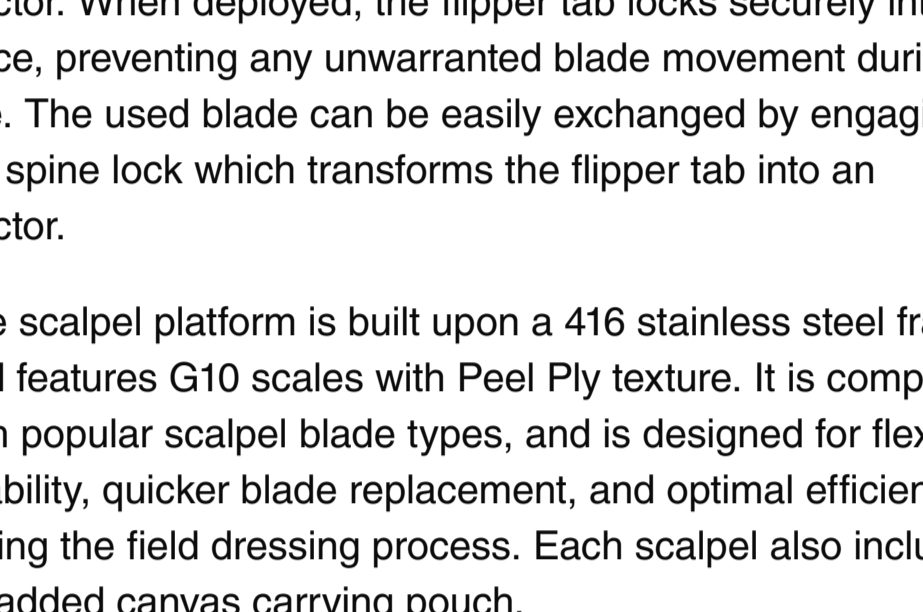

Expanding on several past successes, Hogue Hunting is releasing a new folding model of their Expel Scalpel with a companion blade dispenser, as well as an XL model of the Extrak fixed field blade.

Henderson, NV – In the pursuit of increasing field dressing efficiency and reducing pack weight, many hunters have turned to using disposable scalpel blades to break down wild game; however, these common medical instruments consistently fall short. They often break in the field, posing risk of severe injury, and require additional tools, such as pliers, to safely replace the scalpel blade and force hunters to ultimately increase their pack weight.

Hogue's solution to these shortcomings was the innovative Expel, a strategically ergonomic and durable scalpel design. The Expel allows full control of the blade from multiple directions and enables hunters to safely use and change surgical blades in the field without fear of injury. The Expel is the superior tool for any precision cut, and now, Hogue has elevated the functionalities of this platform with the new Expel Folding Scalpel and companion Expel Blade Dispenser.

Hogue Hunting, in collaboration with world renowned hunter, Lucas Paugh, invested countless hours to analyze the uses and activities conducted by hunters and taxidermists to develop the most functional and easily maneuverable scalpel on the market. The Expel Folding Scalpel platform boasts omni-directional control and traction. A frame with a highly intuitive push point, pull point, and pinch point keeps the user in complete control of the blade's path and pressure—no matter the angle—making this the superior tool for any delicate cut and preserving the integrity of a hunter's harvest.

The Expel Folding Scalpel also features a revolutionary dual-action flipper tab that additionally functions as a blade ejector. When deployed, the flipper tab locks securely into place, preventing any unwarranted blade movement during use. The used blade can be easily exchanged by engaging the spine lock which transforms the flipper tab into an ejector.

The scalpel platform is built upon a 416 stainless steel frame and features G10 scales with Peel Ply texture. It is compatible with popular scalpel blade types, and is designed for flexible usability, quicker blade replacement, and optimal efficiency during the field dressing process. Each scalpel also includes a padded canvas carrying pouch.

The Expel Blade Dispenser is designed to accompany both Hogue Expel models and eliminate any hands-on contact with sharp edges. It is constructed with Polyamide Nylon 12—a Glass Fiber Reinforced Polymer. A spring assisted mechanism lifts each new blade onto a slide covered track, which secures the blade onto the scalpel platform. The dispenser also prevents waste from single blade packaging and features a lower sharps container that holds up to five used blades.

The Extrak® Fixed Blade quickly became an incredibly popular platform not only among hunters, but also EDC enthusiasts due to its thin, minimalistic profile, impeccably sharp blade edge, and ultra-light weight. To further benefit those who need to perform longer, deeper cuts, Hogue developed the Extrak XL.

The Extrak XL features a 3.9" clip point blade available in either CPM M4 high vanadium tool steel or CPM MagnaCut, and to reshare, it features removable G10 scales with Peel Ply texture and includes a nylon blade guard and padded canvas carrying pouch for protected stowing.

All Hogue Hunting products have been rigorously tested and proven by professional hunters, outfitters, and taxidermists. Every Hogue knife is proudly made in the USA and backed by three generations of manufacturing expertise.
